Miss McClintock Becomes Bride of Capt. Ellis

Miss Catherine Garrison McClintock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Garrison McClintock, and Capt. Franklin H. Ellis, Corps of Engineers, U. S. R., were married at noon today in the chapel of the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. Owing to mourning in both families, the details of the wedding were simple, and the ceremony was attended by a small but distinguished company composed of intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom. There was no reception.

Nevertheless, the wedding was of widespread interest owing to the prominence of both families. Captain Ellis is the son of Mrs. G. Blair.

Gay Autumnal Setting.

The little chapel, with its fine architectural lines and its gay autumnal decorations, formed a charming setting for the interesting bridal party. Miss McClintock, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by four bridesmaids—Miss Margaret Perin, Miss Frances Hoar, Miss Caroline Ogden Jones, and Miss Joan Hinkle. Henry F. duPont was best man for Captain Ellis, and the ushers, who preceded the bridal party to the altar, were Capt. John Rickertson, 135th Infantry, U. S. R., of Pittsburgh; J. Upshur Moorhead, Harvey Bundy, and James L. Phillips, rector of St. John's Church, and Dean George C. F. Bratenahl, of the Cathedral, officiated.

The bride wore a lovely gown of soft ivory satin combined with chiffon and pearls. The bodice was made in simple effect, with sleeves of chiffon, and the very long train of the satin was hung from the waist line, where it was arranged in fan shape.

Her tulle veil, which reached to the end of the train, was confined by a wreath of orange blossoms, and over her face she wore a short veil, which was removed after the ceremony.

Her flowers were white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were gowned alike in chic costumes of cornflower blue charmeuse veiled in orchid tinted chiffon. The skirts were made with a voluminous drape of the chiffon cut in points and opening over narrow underskirts of the blue charmeuse. Narrow girdles of sapphire blue satin closed at one side with bows, and the chiffon bodices were draped to the back to tie in huge bows at the waistline. They wore picture hats of blue and orchid tints and carried bouquets of opella roses and catpaws orchids.

Short Wedding Trip.

Immediately after the ceremony Captain Ellis and his bride left for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Ellis resumed the mourning she laid aside for the ceremony and wore a smart traveling costume of black with touches of white.

NATIONAL ANTHEM PLAYED BY MUCK IN CONCERT HERE

It was a brilliant capacity audience that greeted the Boston Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon and formally opened the orchestral concert season.

The question of the playing of the national anthem under the baton of the German leader was definitely settled when Dr. Muck opened the concert with a spirited presentation of "The Star-Spangled Banner" with the full orchestra standing.

There was no demonstration other than of applause either for the first appearance of Dr. Muck or for the playing of the national music. Some of those who felt that Dr. Muck had maintained an improper attitude toward the wishes of his patrons in other cities absented themselves from the concert altogether.

Mr. Linsner Absent.

Conspicuously absent from the box which he customarily occupies at all symphony concerts was A. Linsner, who took this means of expressing his indignation against the previous attitude of Dr. Muck toward America's national air.

Following the playing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" the orchestra proceeded at once to the formal program. Tchaikovsky's fourth symphony, "Minor," was the major number. No music could have been better chosen to display the absolute finesse, the pure melody of the orchestra, or the incomparable loveliness of the wind choir, both wood and brass.

In finely wrought climaxes these players were as a single man. Yet for this Russian music there was almost too much law and order, not enough temperamental abandon nor impassioned feeling. It was exquisite playing at all times, but the Eastern rhythmic and undulating were too measured and the recurrent themes of the finale not insistent enough. It lacked atmosphere.

Old Italian Spirit.
